Armistice Day: Supposed To Mean 'End Of Hostilities'

Armistice Day. Cessation from arms, says the dictionary. . . End of Hostilities. . . .

That's what it means, the expert says. That's what it stands for. And a report er's got no business arguing. He's been kicking around the world too long, messing in too many things, to be an expert on any count. All he can do is remem-pretty carefully," the GRS lieutenant said. "Make it as easy on 'em as possible. Some of them just can't take it. Blow their tops. Can't blame 'em, but we try to transfer them before it happens." GRS stands for Graves Registration Service. The little military cemetery was so close behind the lines that the hired villagers dived without qualms into the very graves they were digging when the big shells screamed in. Sometimes they even hit the cemetery, ripping into the soft wet earth, disturbing the already dead and adding new recruits to their

There was that Armistice Day in 1941, when the embryo pilots flew their puddle-jumper planes in formation over the courthouse square, while the ramrod-backed infantry volunteers stood at stone-faced attention on the green grass down below, and the bugle cried out "taps" in tones so sharp and clear that it hurt and thrilled, all in one.

knew then what it meant. Not one, for that was 1941. . . . "See what I mean?" said the lieutenant softly. A weapons carrier had just pulled up before the tiny GRS shack at the cemetery corner. Dullfaced, emotionless, the graves registration crew got up, pulled on their white gloves. Cotton gloves. The kind of gloves a farmer wears before it And not one of his age quite gets so cold he must abandon the use of individual fingers and turn to mittens. Slowly, the crew walked to the weapons carrier. Then they stood -a sergeant and three privates at its grim burden, deciding how to start.

Armistice Day, 1942. And realization was coming more rapidly. Commemorative services at an Army post, but the thrill was gone from the bugle's keening cry, and the spinetingle could mean anything. . . anything. . .

Inside the weapons carrier, there were five bodies. Or rather, four and a half. The sergeant undid the tailgate and they went to work, two men carrying each body out, laying it on the ground in front of the shack. Except that their eyes moved, their faces were as expressionless as the pale, putty-like masks of the dead they carried. When they came to the half-body, a soldier hesitated. The sergeant shouldered him aside, not ungently, took it in his arms and carried it to lie beside the rest. No one spoke. The driver climbed back into the weapons carrier, lit a cigaret, did not race his engine or clash his gears as he eased the awkward vehicle out of the graveyard.

Armistice Day, 1943, was somewhere in Italy, therefore quite meaningless. Some distance behind the lines, there were a few ceremonies

Tojo Verdict Ahead 25 Japs Set To Hear Fate

TOKYO, Nov. 11-The historic war crimes trial of 25 for mer Japanese leaders is expected to reach its climax tomorrow with the handing down of individual verdicts and sentences.

This became apparent today as the Allied Far East Military Tribunal approached the end of the reading of its 300,000word judgement on the group of defendants headed by Pearl Harbor Premier Hideki Tojo.

Court attaches said it is expected that the 11-nation tribunal will render its decisions as to the guilt or innocence of each defendant at tomorrow morning's Officials make no bones of the fact that aid will not be extended further to any Chinese regime other than the Nationalist government headed by Chiang. Moreover, they presently are doubtful that they should send is some assurance that they will not fall into the hands of the Communists.

At present the chief immediate concern is over the problem of getting military or even economic aid to Chiang's area. Communist advances make shipping schedules difficult.

Armistice Day Meaning

(Continued from Page One) but even those forced to participate were not impressed. Cynicism and bitterness come hard at first-before the dam breaks and the soul is flooded.

And now the dead had been put in bed-sacks-or mattress covers, if you liked that term better - their belongings placed in neat little piles Leone sack was folded carefully upward, as though defying death to protest the half-measure being given. The lieutenant gestured at the stacks of personal effects. "We have another soldier, who doesn't see the bodies, go through those," he said. "With pictures and all, it's easier that way. Seems like you don't feel it so much, if you haven't seen the man."

Armistice Day, 1944. Outside Metz. A famous general made loud noises about traditions, the meaning of the day and so on. But one cold, wet, weary and casualty-shattered division held almost the same terrain it had held a quartercentury before-except these were the sons of the soldiers of that other war.

The graves registration crew walked back to the shack. Carefully they pulled off their gloves, laid them down. Then they went around the corner, sprawled out in the sunlight, lighted eigarets in silence. Eventually, about the third or fourth drag, their faces began to come alive again.

Armistice Day, 1945. Celebration. Homecoming. Armistice Day, 1946. World Arguments. Frantic disbelief. Armistice Day, 1947, Rearmament. Preparedness. Armistice Day, 1948. Cold war.

"Guess this job gets anybody after a while," said the lieutenant, himself a twice wounded ex-platoon le a der. "Sometimes I get to thinking, if I had to go through this again, I'd rather be out there under one of those crosses. At least, you'd be through fighting-forever. . ."

To Dunk or Not To Dunk?

Dunking doughnuts is Sober Hopkins' favorite morning pastime ... and for a long time Ma Hopkins has been trying to break him of the habit. Feels it sets a bad example for the children.

So one morning she puts a heavy frosting of chocolate on the doughnuts... figuring that will stop him. Sober thinks it over for a while and then: Dunk! Taste? Smile!! And Sober compliments the missus on the lovely mocha flavor!

I guess there'll always be two schools of thought: to dunk or not to dunk. But from where I sit, it's a matter of personal choice and taste-like some folks prefer beer to cider, ale to beer. And the less we criticize those differences of taste, the better.

In fact, Ma Hopkins got so curious about the flavor of chocolatecovered doughnuts dunked in coffee, that she tried it herself. Nowyou've guessed it-she's a daily dunker, too!

ARMISTICE DAY

IN THE eyes of many persons the observance of Armistice Day has lost much of its significance in the events of the last nine years. The second war seemed to cancel out the meaning of the end of the first, and its aftermath now holds the center of the stage.

But the Armistice years still are worth attention. It was in them, rather than in the Armistice itself, that the mistakes began, leading toward the new war. It has often been said that the Armistice was an error, that the Allied armies should have overrun Germany as they did in the second war, acnationalism. It has on the other hand creat- Truman. #### END OF RECORD BAN

IT IS too early to assume that the end of the ban against recordings by the American Federation of Musicians is an accomplished fact, as there may still be a question of legality about the agreement reached between the union and the record makers. It seeks a substitute for the outlawed plan of royalties to the unions.

By whatever scheme may be devised to accomplish it, the union aim is to take a portion of the income from the sale of records and use it to stage concerts for the purpose of providing work for musicians.

After almost a year of the ban, the musicians who had been making records are in a position to judge the importance of the income from that source. The fairness of siphoning off a portion of that income to finance made-work for other musicians is determined according to individual sociological views. The economic soundness of such a scheme also is subject to differing Admirers of the work of American musicians will be glad to have the thing set- basis. Too many of them, therefore, are untled, so that additions again can be made to the collections of fine music recorded by American artists. Up to frown over the arrival of Winter. Not surprised at all for the time is here, but disgusted. Anyway, the weather has been nice up to now. Very easy on the coal pile. Remained inside for quick coffee and then away to the ville. Took it easy over slick pavements and errived at the plant just in time to get a report of a school bus being struck by a skidding truck south of town. No one hurt, so the mishap may happily remind us of the dangers of auto piloting at this time of year. May help avert other crashes.

About town did learn of thoughts finally being diverted from the election by necessity soon of filling out new income tax reports. Get as much pleasure out of the 1947 reduction as possible. The rate soon is to go up. Both Democrat and Republican leaders now advise us of the fact. It is a fact we would have recognized long ago except that we have fallen into the habit of letting the politicians do our thinking for us and then telling us what are our thoughts. The government spends and the people, being the government, have to pay.

CARE SURPASSES LUCK IN MANY social circles, certain players develop reputations for being lucky, and others for being unlucky. The luck factor seems to show itself in the way that better hands are dealt on the average to the more fortunate ones, also in the way that suits break for them, the successful operation of finesses and other non-startling developments which to the casual observed indicate better breaks rather than better methods. In many such cases, however, the important factor is not luck, but greater care or clearer thought.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East South West North Pass Pass

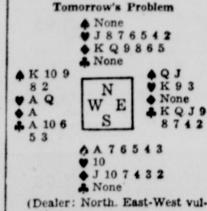

Pass South was able to count two immediate losers in the minors, plus a possible one in hearts if the finesse failed, but one of the minor suit losers could be discarded on the third heart. Hence, if he could limit losers in the trump suit to one trick, his contract would be safe.

With that idea in mind, he won the first trick in the dummy and immediately led a low spade, putting in the Q, which lost to the K. This doomed him to lose and the North?

sole chance for game then was to win the heart finesse. When that failed, he was down.

As is usual in such cases, he bewailed his hard luck. Actually he had played the spades in the worst possible way. It would have been most profitable if he had played the suit in another wrong way, much better, however, than the method he used. That would have been by laying down the A on the first trick to protect himself against a singleton K or J in either hand. Had he done that, he would have taken all tricks in the suit.

The soundest method, however, to avoid losing two trump tricks in this situation would have been to lead from his own hand toward the dummy, prepared to play whatever card was indicated after West played. This was a simple case of soundness and care as against unsoundness and carelessness.

One ounce more or less doesn't seem to be an awful lot. . .but it is more important than it sounds. For one ounce is the total amount of all radio-active atoms shipped out of the United States in the past year! That single ounce supplies 16 foreign nations and more than 300 medical and experimental laboratories. That's cutting it finer than a high school sophomore's whiskers. It takes more than 50 tons of protective wrappings for the shipments of the splitup ounce, which should teach us not to judge the size of the gift by the package. ### 3-Week High Mark In Volume Set At Auction

While prices remained unsteady, sales volume boomed Wednesday at the Pickaway Livestock Association auctions where transactions hit a threeweek high mark.

Following the heavy slump in last week's business, sales volume climbed 714 head over reported receipts of the last auction. Some 1,623 head moved to market Wednesday compared to 909 last week.

Prices fluctuated in all categories of sales ranging from a few cents to near $2 variations in losses and gains, the yard sales report disclosed.

Largest increase in volume sales was reported in hog receipts where the total jumped to 1,000 head this week compared to 450 last week-a difference of 550 head.

Irish-Wildcat Tilt Draws Interest

CHICAGO, Nov. 11 - Three most important factors were going virtually unnoticed today all the pre-game hue and cry for Saturday's Notre Dame-Northwestern football fare-theewell in South Bend.

People were talking about this being the last game in the vaunted Irish-Wildcat series about the weather; about the chance that Notre Dame's single-game home attendance figure may be broken for the second time this season.

But one thing they weren't talking about was this:

The two teams are coming down to their classic engagement in as good physical shape as they've known all season. Emil Sitko, the workhorse Notre Dame halfback who's averaging six yards per carry, will see action; his bad rib is coming Northwestern's swift reserve fullback, Gasper Perricone, has a shoulder separation but will probably get into the game. So, in probability, will Terry Brennan of Notre Dame. Each club has an assortment of hobbled linemen, but they all figure to

2nd Week Slated For County Loop

Monroe Booked For Its Debut

Winners in the first week of play in Pickaway County basketball league will meet the losers Friday night in the second week of county contests.

Only one exception is noted, that of the untried Monroe aggregation, which will play host to Ashville. Monroe drew an open date for the first week of league play.

Other games for the second week play will be Walnut, at Scioto, New Holland at Darby and Pickaway at Perry.

Walnut was winner in its first game of the season last week by clipping Darby 46-25 on Fair grounds Coliseum hardwood, matched this week against Scioto, which was defeated 32-27 by Williamsport in the opener.

New Holland copped its first league game last week by edging Perry 32-31 in the final seconds of the tilt, and is matched N this week against the Darby on A the Darby court.

PICKAWAY basketeers, winner of last week's tilt with Jackson by a 32-24 margin, is slated D to meet Perry on the Perry U court this week.
